WE NOMINATE

Richard Herman Wilhelm, one of the nation's leaders in engineering science and a consultant to both government and industry, who this week bobbed up in the news as the developer of a dramatically different chemical engineering principle for separating fluid mixtures. While the principle, successfully tested by Wilhelm here in his University laboratories and called "chemical parametric pumping," may have little surface meaning for laymen, it could well be of prime importance to all industries concerned with chemical engineering separations (for example, separating salt from ocean water) and could have far-reaching implications for basic research in biology.

Announcement of the principle, described by mathematical models comparable to those used in depicting the pendulum motion achieved by a child in rhythmically pumping himself on a swing, was made this week in Washington by the National Science Foundation. The 57-year old Wilhelm, a full-time Princetonian for well over three decades, had initiated his researches several years ago with the assistance of Princeton University research funds, and, as he moved forward with the development of his laboratory model in the Engineering Quadrangle, was awarded supporting grants by the Science Foundation.

Wilhelm, a native of New York City, a product of Columbia University and a member of Princeton's Department of Chemical Engineering since 1934, has, in the words of one associate, "stimulated the scientific growth of the whole field of chemical engineering." Last fall, for example, he was singled out for the American Chemical Society's $1,000 Award in Industrial and Engineering Chemistry and was cited on a half-dozen counts, including his extensive contributions to the understanding of the many chemical phenomena which take place inside a chemical reactor and his use of laser beams in studying chemical mixing and related processes.

In the 1950's, shortly before he was elevated to his continuing chairmanship of his department within the School of Engineering and Applied Science, Wilhelm was twice recognized by the American Institute of Chemical Engineers. His "excellent publication record" and his concern for the "literature of chemical engineering" led to his receipt of the William H. Walker Award, while in 1952 he was singled out for the Professional Progress Award in Chemical Engineering, an honor annually presented by a panel of distinguished scientists in recognition of "outstanding progress in the field of chemical engineering, for the betterment of human relations and circumstances."

A licensed professional engineer in New Jersey and also an able artist, specializing in landscapes in the environs of his Maine summer home, Wilhelm could well be termed a humanist in engineering. He helped mould the developing Engineering and Public Affairs Program within the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, a venture recalling the widely circulated report Wilhelm wrote in 1947 after he had directed the Princeton Bicentennial Conference on "Engineering and Human Affairs." Some 20 years ago he warned that "our society will decay or explode" if engineers and scientists persist in neglecting the "basic data and laws of social science."

For achieving what appears to be another major "break-through" in chemical engineering; for endowing his teaching, research and writings with the qualities of humanism; for accentuating the role of the scientist-teacher in the advancement of knowledge; he is our nominee as dedicated to the belief that Princeton High School is better left in Borough control, and is certain to continue its efforts to see that it is not. A second referendum on merger could come as early as this spring, or it could follow about a year from the vote held last October 7. Prior to such a move, of course, Princeton Township — active these past four months in studying the possibilities of a high school of its own — must be persuaded that a second referendum is in its advantage and more important, that it is not going to be rejected as so ugly, conning step-sister.

Most immediate change will be the anticipated replacement of Graham Rover, School Board president who aligned the "Blue Book" last spring but then worked for the pro-merger defeat at the polls. A holdover member, Rover is expected to be replaced as its head by one of the seven candidates who believes in educational alignment with the Township. The reorganization

WRITE-IN CANDIDATE: Dr. Lasse Petreocelli, whose latest campaign for a place on the Township School Board produced a race where none had previously existed. The meeting will be held next Wednesday, an early estimate of Mr. Rover's successor is Mrs. Paul J. Strayer.

Mrs. Bernice G. Miller, the former Borough board member who opposed merger last fall, issued the following statement after Tuesday's results were complete: "Now that the election is over, I will do everything I can to bring about a friendly and fair way of preserving a joint Princeton Borough-Princeton Township System. This has always been my purpose and I gladly join in the views of the Township Committee, which gave renewed assurance last evening that people of good will on both sides can agree on a solution that fits our community."

There was another request for harmony this one made at Monday's Township committee meeting. At the instigation of Committee Chairman William E. Wilson, the governing body passed a resolution asking the Township Board of Education to ignore past misunderstandings and disappointments and come to some understanding with the Borough Board in preserving what we have. "Mr. Wilson's basic belief,"

"thorough and best possible working together is the best possible solution, if it can be achieved with equity to both." WRITE-IN FIZZLES OUT In Township. Voters jammed Township schools in record numbers Tuesday night to defeat a last-minute write-in campaign and elect overwhelmingly incumbent George Grace (1580 votes), Charles Juffen (1540) and newcomer Herbert Albright (1569).

The write-in campaign for Orlando Petreocelli, the candidate sponsored at the last minute by the new Italian American Federation of Princeton, drew only 143 votes. The school board, also an object of attack by the Federation, was voted in easily. The current expense tally was "yes" 1472, "no" 310. The capital outlay, "yes" 1337, "no" 305.

The Lone Line Officials, expecting the usual light vote in uncontested elections, had ordered one machine for each polling place. These machine orders must be placed 40 days before the election and when Mr. Petreocelli's unexpected campaign began last week, it was too late to order more. Most voters waited in line at least an hour. At Little Brook, there were still 12 voters waiting at 10:30 — one and a half hours after the polls closed. Little Brook election officials brought their count to Board secretary Norman Anderson at Community Park School at 11:30.

"I am delighted with this evidence of community support," said Mr. Grace after the election results were in. "I regard it as a vote of confidence in the school board and in our budget."

The new Italian American Federation (see "Topics of the Town") mailed a letter last week to 462 Township residents at Italian descent, and distributed 500 more to Negro families urging them to write in the name of Orlando Petreocelli, 25 Currier Road, accountant with the D. Van Nottzand Publishing Company and to cast a "yes" vote on the budget. "Vote 'no' on the school budget," the letter said. "If we can defeat the budget, they will have to take it back to cut it down and conduct another vote on it."

"Don't stay at home this time, go to the polls and use your ballot to put a stop to the skyrocketing taxes in Princeton Township."

Concern About Taxes. The letter began by reminding Italian Americans and Negroes of the role played by various Italian groups in support of middle and low-income families in the Township. The spokesman for the groups has usually been Leonard DiDonato, first vice president of the Federation.

"At the Township Committee budget hearing," the letter stated, "we were told that they understood our problems but [there was] too much they could do because the Board of Education spent most of the tax money. At the Board of Education Budget hearing, we asked that the budget be cut to show the people of the Township that this Board was doing their best to reduce taxes. We were told that our people had a serious problem, but they had cut every dollar they could from the budget."

"The time has come," the letter continues, "to take action to let the elected officials understand that the taxpayers in the middle and low-income brackets will not be driven from their town by rising high taxes and that we must have some relief now."

The Federation's campaign was conducted quickly and quietly. However, Thursday of last week, several Township Parent-Teacher Organization members had heard about it and, concerned about the size of the budget and the unopposed candidates, began a counter campaign of their own.

P.T.O. members set in operation the telephone "tree" of Township school families, originally designed as a device for notifying parents when schools would be closed for bad weather.

In addition, a group of women from the voters list, tapping one person on each street in the Township to call families who were not on the "tree" because they have no children in Township schools, was set in motion.

The "tree" approach was successful; however, the budget did suffer bruises in Districts One and Four, which have a large Italian and Negro population. Of the 254 votes against current expenses, for example, 224 were recorded in these two districts.

A KID HAS TO BE BUSY

Or He Goes Out For Kicks

The PTA of Princeton High School sent a carefully-worded "Alert to All Parents" in its newsletter on Wednesday. The action was held off a year ago at the request of police and school authorities. But on January 4 of this year, Township School Superintendent John McKenna, Kenneth Michael PHS principal, Pd. Walter Enman, Township juvenile officer, and Lt. Francis Maguire of the Borough met with the PTA and reversed their position.

PTA presidents from the sending districts are meeting this Thursday with the high school PTA to discuss a similar alert to parents of 7th and 8th graders. Representatives of Chapin, Princeton Day School, St. Paul's and Hun and the Stuart School are expected to attend.

Next Wednesday, the high school PTA will hold the first weekly "clearing house" of local information for its parents group.

Strong dissent to the PTA action has come from the Valley Road PTA. Meeting in executive session last Thursday, the seven members present voted against sending a similar letter to parents of 7th and 8th graders. It objected to the planned high school letter.

The Valley Road position, according to several sources, is that the letter is too strong, too alarming, that only a few teenagers are involved, and

MY SECRET HEART: A whisper, just for two, from Judawn Jones, 4, to Nathan Stok, 4½. Judawn and Nathan were busy making Valentines at the Princeton Nursery School, Leitch Avenue, when Judawn decided to share her secret. Think Nathan will tell? Never! (Staff Photo)

But the PTA has nothing facial to go on where 7th and 8th graders are concerned.

Lt. Maguire of the Borough police told TOWN TOPICS "kicks" that they lose interest in a normal teenage activities among parents would be helpful. "But these parents are pushing too fast, too far. We just do not have facts to substantiate the rumors."

Quance of Prevention. "The idea is that we prevent a Delin in Princeton," the PTA told TOWN TOPICS. "This is why people have responded. We do have evidence that the children start smoking at the end of 8th grade."

"There is evidence of experimental use of harmful drugs among teenagers in Princeton. The drinking in this town could be eliminated if parents were home when the kids were. It's the parents' liquor."

"We do NOT have an addict problem here at this age, but we do have socially a potential situation that could lead to addiction. . . . We are trying to educate the Princeton population to the fact that it CAN happen in Princeton."

The PTA hopes that it is starting a program of continuing education among parents. Most of the other parent organizations have called emergency executive meetings to discuss the high school alert. "Nobody has tried to protect themselves."

The Pattern. The PTA letter in full:

"It has come to our attention that some of our young people are sliding into an unhealthy pattern of behavior which begins with smoking and alcohol drinking. Evidence indicates that these activities, begun at too early an age, sometimes lead to marijuana smoking, glue-sniffing and experimenting with dangerous, habit-forming drugs, such as sleeping pills, pep or diet pills and certain cough syrups. "This pattern, once started, is extremely difficult to reverse. The young people caught in this web are unlikely to extricate themselves. They become so entranced in their search for abnormal behavior that they lose interest in a normal teenage activities."

"If left to their own devices, they will encourage a socially deviant atmosphere, in which the development of normal social behavior and maturity is inhibited and physical health is increasingly endangered."

"Most of the young people who venture in these activities begin them in the early high school years. So we believe that as an agent of prevention you should be alerted to the situation. We should all become well enough informed so that we can help our children resist the temptations of dangerous anti-social behavior.

"Working closely with the school administrators and the police department, parents in the greater Princeton area are joining in a program designed to inform you about the overall problem and to provide you with more effective means to obtain information from reliable sources distribute some of it in written form and some by speakers and films at public meetings.

As a first step, we are establishing a "clearing house" of local information every Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 in the home economics dining room at the high school, Room 140A. If you would like to participate in this project, please join us there."

Bellweathers. The PTA is talking about the welfare of some 2,600 young people in grades 7-12 in the Princeton community. The incidents which have come up for discussion involved only a handful of these youngsters and span several years. The PTA feels that the incidents are increasing.

Some of the incidents have been reported in the press: the attempted bombing of Borough Patrolman Charles Harris's home; party crashing, several knifings, street fights, a gang fight on a boy in the school hallway; a drunken brawl in Kingston.

Other incidents have come to PTA attention from young eyewitnesses. "They're so casual about these things!" A teenagers' breakfast party held just before the 1965 Christmas holiday, where guests arrived "high" after an all-night bachelorette party and then rolled on to classes at the high school. "One has slept it off in the rubble at the Firestone library."

The student who "swallowed 20 pills to see what would happen" . . . And the holiday dance with a bar hidden away for the chaperones. "At least, one girl commented, 'I was never that late when the kids all drank.'"

Marijuana at a Party. Party crashers brought marijuana cigarettes with them to one Princeton party. The matter ordered everyone to leave and called the parents of her child's invited guests.

A meeting was set up with the parents, a social worker and a psychologist. The teenagers came too. "If you're going to talk about us, we want to be there."

In the Township, the juvenile calendar had 67 cases in 1965, 223 cases in 1965—although Township population had not increased four times in five years.

In the Borough, which was without a juvenile officer during December, 128 cases were handled and 38 warnings given. In 1964, 190 cases were handled, 104 warnings given.

Age-Level Moves Downward. A few years ago, when the PTA of the high school first discussed the potential situation with police, the officers were concerned with 17 to 19-year olds. Now they are also involved with 13 and 14-year olds. Borough police state that drinking parties are reaching the high school sophomore level.

A Township science teacher, after completing a study unit on alcohol, asked her students to raise their hands if they believed they would never drink. Eight years ago, her class all raised their hands. Last year, not a finger fluttered.

Princeton pharmacist, called by the high school PTA, won't sell enough syrup to children without parental permission. One drug store has a whole shelf of items which an staff member may sell without first telephoning the child's home. These incidents cover several years. They involve a minute number of Princeton's youth. As a member of the

ALL IN THE FAMILY: The Moffats, Mr. and Mrs. have moved into 18 Bank Street with Wendy and Gabriel, and are already busy with the spring repertory season at McCarter. Donald Moffat, familiar to Princeton theatre-goers, will direct Ann Murray's Moffat in "Miss Julie". Meanwhile, he is commuting from Bank Street to New York where he is in the AFA "You Can't Take It With You" at the Lyceum.

News Of The THEATRES

MEET THE CAST
After Opening Performance. Black lies will be on stage at McCarter following the opening performance of "Lady Windermere's Fan," the Oscar Wilde comedy that will launch the 1966 spring repertory series.
To allow time for punch and conversation after the show, "Lady Windermere's Fan" will start at 8 p.m. The date, of course, is Friday, February 18.

The resident repertory company this spring includes many familiar names: Ruby Holbrook, Charlotte Glen, Emery Battis, Gregory Abels, James Tripp, Anne Murray, Clarence Felder, Mario Siletti, David Byrd and Ann Gee Byrd.

Charlie Chaplin will direct "Lady Windermere's Fan." Charlotte Glen will be Lady Windermere, Ruby Holbrook will be Mrs. Erynn, David Byrd will be Lord Windermere. Others in the cast will be Gregory Abels (Lord Darlington), Anne Murray (Duchess of Newark) and Emery Battis, Clarence Felder, James Tripp, Ann Gee Byrd and Eve Johnson.

Others plays in the spring series will be Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Strindberg's "Miss Julie," Shaw's "Candida" and an Irish musical, "Arrah-na-Pogue" by Dion Boucicault.

GASSMAN IN PERSON
With Theatre Anthology. Italy's leading interpreter of great drama, Vittorio Gassman, will bring his troupe of actors to McCarter with "An Anthology of Italian Theatre" on Sunday, February 27, at 3 p.m.

"The Game of Heroes," is the title of Signor Gassman's anthology. He has included scenes from Pirandello's "The Man with a Flower in his Mouth," Ugo Betti's "The Queen and the Rebels," Griffith's "An Airport Too Far Away" and Dole's "Waste."

The company will give a portion of "Parlamento" by Isidoro (who was known as "Il Ruzante"), and the dinner scene from Goldoni's "La Locandiera."

The production has already toured most of Europe and will make its American debut at Lincoln Center the week before it comes to McCarter.

A KEATON MEMORIAL
At McCarter, Three Buster Keaton films will be shown at McCarter next Tuesday as a memorial to the late comic. The evening will begin at 8 p.m.

Charlie Chaplin will share the bill with Keaton in a comedy festival including "A Night with Charlie Chaplin" (selected segments from his films), "The Bank," "The Vagabond" and "Shoulder Arms."

THE SWEET LIFE
Film Coming to Town. "La Dolce Vita" controversial Italian film originally released five years ago will come back to Princeton this Saturday, February 12, for a showing at McCarter at 8 p.m.

Federico Fellini's film depicts the decadence of Italy's wealthy upper classes and their lack of concern for those less privileged than they. "La Dolce Vita" was "the most talk-about" film of 1961.

Ottello (Wed. & Thurs.) is a photographed stage play, not a "film" in the sense that the Laurence Olivier version of "Hamlet" some years ago was with its much more fluid movement and variety of setting. Presented by the illustrious National Theatre of Great Britain and starring Olivier, "Ottello" was received enthusiastically in England and on a tour to Moscow. The stage sets were reconstructed at England's Shepherd Studios, and

since they were few and con-stricted, this has limited the use of the camera.

Oliver's interpretation of the Moor of Venice is brilliant and controversial. His performance is in the classical tradition which permits the actor to let go in the scene in which jealousy completely consumes Othello and drives him at one point to an epileptic fit.

The crucial role of Iago, the cunning villain, is carried out with breathtaking skill by Frank Finlay. Maggie Smith plays a lovely and touching Desdemona. The rest of the cast is also in fine relief.

Darling (starts Friday) Julie Christie and Dirk Bogard star in this English film, one of the best to be issued in 1965. The story of a model in the make, "Darling," is a million.

Julie Christie in the lead role at first takes like it as she can. She ditchers her husband and then is determined to get as much out of it as she can. She ditchers her husband and then is determined
to get as much out of it as she can. She ditchers her husband and then is determined to get as much out of it as she can.

Her experiences are for adults only, as some are quite frank and there is a description of a situation. The performances are good, and the backgrounds are quite lavish.

GARDEN
Juliet of the Spirits (now playing) marks the first time that Italian director Federico Fellini has used color film, and not looking at it is something of a heady experience. The images are beautiful and dan-ling in composition and the use of montage is so ingenious that the eye becomes almost hypnotized.

In view of this, the story told seems more profound than it is. Juliet, played by Gualterio Masina, discovers that her middle-aged husband is being unfaithful. She attempts to cope with the situation driving her to despair and she begins to have fantasies in which people from her past appear.

The characters, while not probed in much depth, are marvelous "originals" in the Fellini manner. Miss Masina's performance is acting of rare virtuosity. Voluptuous Sandro Milo carries over from his Bohemian living next door to the embattled couple, a circus performer with whom Ju-liet's grandfather had eloped, and an apparition in one of Juliet's fantasies. Marie Pim is suave as the husband, and the film is a masterpiece, pictured as if by the family friend.

There are attention-holders reminiscent of Fellini's "La Dolce Vita," such as near-nudity, suggestions of orgies, and references to his and pictures. (In Italian, with English titles)

Thunderball (now playing).
Remember the Aston Martin DB 5 that appeared in "Gold-finger," equipped with twin Browning machine guns behind the headlights, a set of fire-slashers, revolving license plates, and an ejector seat for unwashed passengers? "Sun Conveyers" James Bond, and it back into action in "Thunder-ball."

There are also racket-firing motor bikes, a two-man diving bell that operates at 15 fathoms, huge underwater sleds capable of transporting 20 megaton B-bombs, a giant hydrofoil that skims the ocean at 85 mph, and a land-to-air device that snatches a man afloat at 180 miles per hour.

The indestructible secret agent has four beautiful playmates, chief of whom is Luciena Purnell as the lethal lady.
The action, and there's plenty to satisfy all Bond fans, takes place in and around the luxury hotels and beach clubs of the Bahamas, and in colorful settings of the Out Islands.

TO GIVE "BILLY BUDD"
At Lawrenceville, Herman Meyers' novel "Billy Budd" as dramatized by Louis O.
Cove and Robert Chapman, will be given by the Lawrenceville School Periwig Club at the Kirby Arts Center next Friday and Saturday, February 11 and 12.

Performances will begin at 8 p.m. and admission will be free. No tickets are required for the February 11 performance and reserved seats are available at the box-office for the February 12 performance.

The box office is open nightly from 6:45 to 7:45.

Billy Budd, a young sailor without formal education, is a living symbol of innocence, incapable of seeing evil in other human beings. Impressed into the British Navy in 1799, he encounters a malevolent Symbol at Arms who is a symbol of evil as Billy is of good.

"HERE'S A FUNNY ONE!" John Capouza reads a joke to his sister Laure, from the "Barrel of Fun" joke and puzzle book at Male's Book Shop, John, fourth grader at Nassau Street School, and Laure, fifth grader, like to explore the inexpensive children's paperbacks at the book shop.

IT'S NEW To Us

SRSL!

No, for Grigstovna! Last time we made rounder meatballs we had trouble finding a pan big enough for those eaters. This problem has been neatly and meatly solved by the canned meatballs (reindeer) that rest comfortably on the shelf at Torquist's, in Grigstovna.

Torquist's is the kind of country store they don't make any more. It is about the size of a piece of cyclotrip, but it has a bigger inventory than most supermarkets, and five stools and a soda fountain and a view out into the snow-covered countryside along the canal. Prettiest scenery for miles around.

Inside, besides that soda fountain, is Scandinavia in microcosm. We weren't joking about the reindeer meatballs; there they are, in a can ready to be heated up.

Mr. Torquist's particular pride is the batch of home-made fish cakes and the fish pudding (fishkaviar) that brings back from Brooklyn, absolutely fresh from the stove. We were curious about the fish pudding and Mr. Torquist told us that it should be fried, by the slice and served with a cream sauce (family style) or a lobster or shrimp sauce (company's company). He has it canned, too, but the home-made pudding has a firmer flavor of fish.

Late fish, frozen, has recipes right on the plastic bag. It's cod, as you know, and so quick to cook that you really shouldn't allow it more than seven minutes on the stove.

A big barrel of big salt herring are right there on the Torquist floor. Small herring are three for $1, and Mr. Torquist suggests that you soak them overnight in fresh water, then boil some potatoes in the jackets, get out a pat of fresh butter to melt, and the hot potato, and eat the herring cold with the hot potatoes and butter. Wow!

Another good and hearty mid-winter dish would be the Estremum the Norwegian pea soup. Different from the split pea green we all know well, this is a light brown, made with whole yellow peas and lots of pork.

In the cheese case, there is King Christian IX, a sharp Danish cheese which the Danes must surely make just to prove that not all Danish cheese is blue. A mild Danish cheese and a mild Norwegian cheese will tempt you, too. The Ekto Gelstot is purest goat's milk cheese, with the accent on purity.

An interesting Swedish mix with a fish base is Janssons Frestelse, excellent on a bit of crisp bread or a hard-boiled egg. Cod roe caviar, squeezed from a tube, is good on a hard-boiled egg for lunch.

For afternoon coffee break, there is the Swedish lingsa, a soft and rather sweet bread. Swedes like to put butter on it and dunk it quickly into a cup of steaming coffee.

BE MINE

Sofa Built for Two. Just in time for Valentine's Day, Nassau Interiors has a dove of love seats, billing and cooing all over the store. Some even in tuxedos.

The tuxedo — that's the style with arms the same height as the back — turns up first, formal as can be, in a soft aqua brocade with down-filled cushions: a loose pair at the back; two more balancing on each side. The seat is a single cushion, $384.

Another tuxedo with two seat cushions and a pillow back is covered with a very sturdy cotton poplin in a traditional print of tobacco on white, $320. Our favorite is the foundation Lawson done in quilted polka-dot cotton — trapunto, actually — with a navy background and happy royal blue and white flowers. It's $252.

For small living-rooms where a loveseat isn't quite what you need, Nassau Interiors has a 72-inch sofa, upholstered at the moment in jade velvet, but available in all colors and fabrics. Incidentally, we assume you know that the fabrics we described above happen to be the ones on display. You may have your loveseat in whatever fabric or pattern you choose.

That goes for a new collection of small side chairs, too. These chairs, at $99, are Nassau Interiors' Valentine to you. How can you resist the little barrel-back chair, trim as its own back buttons, done in floral "linen"?

Or the T-cushion back, quilted, or the style with gently curving arms sloping down —

AT ANNIVERSARY DINNER: Mrs. Hollis Heberger (center), Library Place, with two charter members of the Women's College Club, which held a dinner to mark its 50th anniversary. At left, Mrs. George Beggs, long-time Township resident who now lives in Rock port, Mass.; at the right is Mrs. Irving W. Nersson, 159 Nassau Street, a 530 Charter member. Miss Marguerite McGlenaghan, 639 Ewing Street, could not be present for the occasion.

Topics Of The Town
 Township police puts it, "I know of only one added in the entire Township."

Prevention the Goal. "We are not talking about addicts," the PTA says, "we are talking about prevention." A Princeton pharmacist, long a member of the community, has this to say, "Parents are so busy, but they should be alerted."

"The kids have more money now, there's a dollar, now let me alone," or "Give me an A and I'll give you $5." None of our youth are immune to these influences, and they get less and less immune as they go along.

"Another thing, when there's too much parental restraint, kids don't learn self-discipline. So when they break loose, they really go. I think the Young Life group is attempting to do something about this."

A Princeton parent said, "A bored child gets into trouble. The idle kid is going to do something to work out his energies."

And a mother on the PTA tells of a recent phone call. "It was from the mother of a girl my son was taking to a dance. She didn't want her daughter to know she was making the call, but she did at least want to make acquaintance with me on the phone."

"I thought it was wonderful that she called. A few years ago, she wouldn't have felt free to. Parents are communicating better now."

SAFETY IS PARAMOUNT
 Township, on Lake Hazards. The grooming problem of Lake Carnegie and the canal in winter time came before a solemn Township Committee Monday night as Administrator Joseph R. Nini read three letters urging action and immediate safety measures to prevent further drowning tragedy.

One letter, from the Parent-Teacher Organization at Riverside School, suggested fines against parents whose children skate in areas not specifically roped off, and fines for parents of children under 12 who allow their youngsters to skate without adult supervision.

Jacob Schlesinger and Steven Coyne, who drowned last month, were both pupils at Riverside School.

A petition signed by families in the Hibber and Magic facially apartments on the lake, where the young victims lived, asked that certain areas be roped off for skating, a patrol and line system instituted, and fences erected between the apartments and the lake. The petition also suggested that schools notify children each afternoon at school closing time about ice conditions on the lake.

Gordon Griffin, Township attorney, pointed out that the Township would need University cooperation to work out any legal fine-patrol system on the lake, and he added that the size and shape of the lake, plus the hazard of the parallel canal, made the problem particularly difficult. He also suggested that Lake

Carnegie is actually quadruple even though it belongs to the University, because the University has allowed the public to use it.

Recreation and police departments are working on the problem, said Committeeman Walter B. Foster, who is Township police commissioner, and Committeeman William Wilson asked for monthly progress reports so that the problem will not die with the end of the winter.

1-85. Reminding the Township that it is "imperative" to move along on 1-85, J. R. Schuyler of the state highway department, sent along the map of its consultants' studies of 1-85 alignment, and asked for comments by March 1. Township engineer Frank Quinby and the Planning Board will take on the assignment.

In another state communication, Roscoe P. Kandell, state commissioner of health, sent Committee a letter of appreciation for its part in the fluoridation of Princeton's water supply. Committeeman Wilson said the real credit should go to the Township Board of Health.

Committee and the Board of Education have reached an agreement about using the Community Park School driveway as access to the new parking yard built along the south side of Community Gardens for the convenience of softball players and, eventually, tennis players and swimmers. The school board said all right, provided the Township maintains the driveway, forbids it to commercial vehicles and doesn't allow people to drive through when school is in session.

Developer Benedict Yedlin his street-opening permit money provided he resurfaces Riverside in return by August 1968. Mr. Yedlin will leave a cash deposit of $841 to serve as a guarantee.

IF PAY FINES

In Madison Court, Daniel Smith, 27, 2 Lakeview Avenue, Kingston, was fined $20 Monday by Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. for speeding. Other traffic violators were Mrs. Margaret E. Seruby, 57, Crusher Road, Howell, and Bruno J. Walmsley, 56, 15 Sergeant Street, who paid $12 each, Mrs. Marybeth for a stop sign infraction and Mr. Walmsley for a red light offense.

Mrs. Elmer J. Wood, 115 Cosh Circle, was fined $10 for careless driving, and Albert K. Jones, 59, Markham Road, $15, for obstructing the passage of traffic. All but Mr. Smith pleaded not guilty.

In Criminal Court, Charles A. Humphrey, 27, 111 Leigh Avenue, was fined $25 for being drunk and disorderly, and Leroy Thomas, 18, of Trenton $25 for larceny.

The charge of passing a worthless check lodged against Andray G. Clauser, 19, 194 Washington Street, was dismissed when the complainant, Walter Service, owner of the Pro Shop on Thruway Square, notified the court he wished to withdraw his complaint. Mr. —Continued on Page 4—

Lake Safety Discussed.

To the Editor of Town Topics: Princeton has been profoundly shocked by the drowning of two small boys in the Delaware and Raritan Canal. And again the question arises: how can such tragedies be prevented?

The undersigned, member of a citizens' committee formed two years ago to consider what could be done following a similar tragedy in Lake Carnegie, met recently with concerned representatives of the Township, the University and the Borough. Of many possible solutions for the ice safety problem that were discussed, two seem to merit implementation:

1. To install an improved warning system on Lake Carnegie. The idea would be to have several large warning flags on poles along the borders of the lake. Another type of warning would be attached to the Harrison Street bridge. These would be so placed that they may be seen from almost any place on the lake. A red flag will mean unsafe ice, and a white flag—continuing the identity already established—will mean safe ice.

2. Some form of restriction on skating, or any form of activity on the ice, by area, age and hours. Thus, certain limited areas of the lake would be clearly identified as safe skating areas.

During certain prescribed hours, for example, 9 to 5:30 p.m. safe skating days, skating within these areas would be allowed by the Joint Borough and Township Recreation Commission. And it would be clearly established that all skating or ice activities of any sort, by anyone below the age of 16, must be within these areas and during the set hours.

The establishment of such a warning system and even these seemingly simple rules will be no easy matter for the authorities mentioned. Details of working out the matter of responsibilities will take time. But we are confident it can be done, and ask for the community's support of the plan for implementing these measures which everyone present at this recent meeting indicated would be forthcoming.

For many good reasons, we believe coordination of these measures can best be handled through Mr. Donald Barr, the effective director of the Joint Borough and Township Recreation Commission.

Finally, it must be emphasized that whatever the concerned authorities may do, the successful prevention of similar tragedies will be dependent on the cooperation and understanding of the community—particularly parents, and their children. A case in point is this idea of a 14-year-old age limit on ice freedom.

As matters now stand, this can only be established by educating the youthful social conscience, and, where necessary, by parental measures. Yet should this rule be stated and flaunted with tragic results, we believe some legal measure akin to the restrictions on driving an auto should be explored by the community.

The community already carries on an excellent education program on ice safety through its schools, the First Aid and Rescue Squad, and other organizations. It maintains 13 life rings with ropes on Lake Carnegie. Township and Borough police cooperate in testing the ice and notifying the community via the flags on Nassau Street and the radio.

Yet still it happens—and it shouldn't. Let us hope these additional measures will help.

"Only Four Minutes." To the Editor of Town Topics:

Someone can't read! Whoever you are, this message will, therefore, go unheeded by you unless you have children or neighbors who share my concern and may inform you of it.

How do I know you can't read? Because I have seen you, many of you, pass by a sign, at either end of Roper Road, marked "HOPED-OF-CHILDREN SLEDDING."

If you are a stickler for detail, there truly is no "rope" stretching across the road, but rather a giant saw horse and a vibrant yellow sign. Yet you proceed at considerable difficulty through snow drifts to swing your car around the sign.

I have mentioned snowy hills, hard-packed snowy hills lined with straggling eucalyptus, and children attempting the assault of the opposing slipperily hill scattered boldly with youngsters.

I conclude one of several things from your behavior. Either, as mentioned, you cannot read at all, or you are rebellious, antagonistic, adventurous or simply foolish and thoughtless.

My plea will probably fail to reach you, if you fall in any but the last category, but I nevertheless, appeal to all of you.

Surely, it is only a minor inconvenience that for one or two weeks of the year when there is heavy snow you are asked to detour an extra four minutes to arrive at your destination. Those four minutes, though disconcerting to you, must be easier to accept than the lifetime of remorse you would suffer should your car skid off the hill into the group of children whom you have forced off a road designated for their use.

Does this thought not occur to you as you go punning down one hill in order to get up enough steam to ascend the other?

The children who enjoy this brief sledding experience and we, their mothers, are most grateful to the Township Police for temporarily blocking off this road. We especially extend our appreciation to the township police who, thanks to the three families who live between the hills and suffer silently the extreme inconvenience to them of living on an unwaded street.

Do let us extend the warmth of our gratitude to you, giving you a hearty wave of thanks the next time we see you as you graciously follow the detour where the sign says "ROPED OFF — CHILDREN SLEDDING."

Parents, Attention.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Putting the rap on the Police Department because of the recent tragic misfortune of the drowned boy is not at all justified. Patrolling the lake, or putting up signs, or ropes or whatever isn't the answer.

Indoubtedly, though it may be difficult for some minds to comprehend, parents kill their children. This is a merciless thing to say of parents who have suffered as they have and experienced something from which they will never fully recover — but seven-year-olds drown every season because of dangerous ice.

So do ten and twelve-year-olds and seventeen-year-olds and yea, adults. What chance do they have in 36-degree weather — when three little boys go under together, piling on top one another — they had less than 30 seconds of life left.

A seven-year-old is a very young boy. He wouldn't actually know dangerous ice from poisonous preservatives and kids will ignore signs and warnings. It is parents who allow their seven and eight-year-old children, or even those somewhat older, to go to Carnegie Lake, or similar places, unattended are operating with an involved risk.

They have baby sitters in the relative safety of their homes, day or evening, when they go out or away. What makes them think a large body of ice-covered water is any safer?

Expecting a policeman to be on duty at the exact spot of an accident or each perpetrated crime isn't the answer either. It's as much the voters clamoring for Detroit to build safer cars — when it is the people who are becoming unsafe.

People kill people — a car just happens to be the means with which to do it. Silly? Just reflect a little more of the narrow escapes you've had — what almost caused you and your family to get killed? Was it you or the other driver?

Hundreds die in auto accidents because fathers or mothers behave irresponsibly; by speeding, carelessness, arrogance, or an inconsiderate attitude toward another on the road.

Parents take control of themselves and then the car does the rest.

No, it isn't the police or the town who are at fault. The blame doesn't necessarily lie in the auto, the treacherous ice, or the lack of safety measures. Hundreds of more infants and small children, each year, die in fires because they were left alone — unattended by parents.

The blame lies purely with the adult — the parents whose negligence, their dispassionate attitude, their failure to recognize that their children are children. They fail in the overall protection they are supposed to provide for their children and they are guilty of homicide.

There must be a good reason for the fact that boys and girls, until they reach the third grade in some schools, are not permitted to ride their bicycles to school. I think that with the odds stacked against them it makes pretty good sense. Adults and I mean mothers and fathers rushing by at 35 to 40 mph in the 25-mph zones might very well be smashing the kids from their bikes right and left — and blithely testify that it was "unavoidable."

The tragedy of the little boys was a terrible and thing to all of us. A little kid needs a better break than he sometimes gets.

ROBERT A WEBB
6 Hamilton Avenue

Countryside Defaced.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
While increasing attention is being paid to removing various kinds of ugliness from our highways and countryside, most utilities like the Public Service Company and the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company be allowed to move steadily and defiantly in the opposite direction?

In recent years the separate strands of wire that used to festoon the poles along our streets and highways, when they served hardly decorative, have been mainly replaced with great ugly black cables which are a really effective defacement. And now the utilities come along and protect these cables from the rubbing of tree branches by fastening to them pieces of unfinished board in assorted lengths, looking like leftovers from shantytowns.

Cities in Europe with much lower living standards than ours would not stand for this. Must Princeton? Must New Jersey?

Books, In Memory

A Princeton Public Library fund to buy books in memory of Jacob Schlesinger and Steven Cohen now has $350. It was announced this week by Robert Staples, librarian.

The two boys, age 7 and 8, were drowned last month when they fell through the ice on the Delaware Raritan canal. Both were regular borrowers from the library.

The books will be identified by simple book-plates, Mr. Staples said. Contributions are still welcome, and should be sent to Mr. Staples at the library.

nile companion, also from Trenton, were apprehended by Princeton police Friday afternoon after they had stolen three transistor radios and an alarm clock from R. E. Johnson's electrical store on Tulane Street.

At Borough court Monday night, Leroy Thomas, 21, fined $25, while the charge of larceny against Joseph Davis and Wallace Huntley was dismissed. The juvenile was turned over to authorities in Trenton.

At 3 p.m. Friday, Tom Johnson ran to P.O. James Lillor on a motorcycle patrol to tell him that four youths had shoplifted numerous articles from his father's store, P.O. Lillor's, on Trenton Street. The youths who remained in his grasp—Thomas—had in his possession a paper bag containing the alarm clock and two radios. Their value was $40.

PRINCESS SHOP ROBBER
Clothing, Money Taken, A-1
Borough police may have prevented thieves from completing their work at the Princess Shop, 37 Hallowell Street, early Monday morning but not before the intruders had made off with a considerable amount of apparel and lesser amounts of cash.

An on-the-spot inventory by the owner, Mrs. Walter Ser, listed as missing approximately $100 worth of pre-teen slacks valued at $6-$12 a pair, approximately 50 pairs of girls' slacks worth $5-$10 a pair, about 15 pairs of women's slacks valued at $3.50 to $15 a pair, and approximately 15 dresses ranging in value from $10 to $40.

In addition, $4 in cash and change was taken from a cash register drawer found on the floor and about $15 more in cash from a safe which had been forced open. In all, well over $1000 in apparel was stolen.

The theft was discovered at 4:40 a.m. by P.O. John Bellows and P.O. Stanley Diamond on car patrol. They noticed a screen had been removed from a side window facing the Princeton Playhouse.

Upon investigation, they discovered a pile of clothes that had been flung near the window in apparent readiness for their removal. Other pieces of apparel were found outside on the ground. Police said entry had been gained by forcing the latch of the window, after removing its screen. P.O. Bellows is continuing the investigation.

TWO INCUMBENTS WIN

In West Windsor, Pa., respectively totals of 300 and 293. Joseph W. Cady and Stef. Ann. Gave, incumbent members of the West Windsor Board of Education, were elected Tuesday to new three-year terms. Named with them was new council member C. Duncan, who received 200 votes.

Walter Dismark, third Board member seeking reelection, lost with 242 votes. Also defeated for a three-year term was James W. Gave, who lost by a narrow margin to Cady.

terms were Mrs. Ann V. Gallegher, 243.
Donald C. Ferline, unopposed for a one-year term, polled 207. The budget was approved by a narrow margin, 287 to 228 for current revenues and $10 to $13 for capital expenses.

BY NOT BOMBING, U. S. TROOPS WOULD SUFFER: Richard Knowles of Hamilton Avenue can speak with authority on the subject of bombs and Viet Nam. He sent seven months there as a U. S. Marine before returning to Princeton four months ago. For his reaction to the resumption of the bombing of North Viet Nam, see below. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: What is your reaction to our resumption of the bombing of North Viet Nam?

Where asked: Nassau Street.

Richard Knowles, 252 Hamilton Avenue, laborer: My feeling is it was going to start again, we might as well bomb Hanoi and Hy Fong. Before they were just bombing the jungle, bridges and roads. It didn't stop the infiltration of Viet Cong troops; it seems as if the infiltration of troops is steadily increasing. Yes, I'm in favor of the bombings. If we're going to be over there fighting, that's part of war. If we didn't I think it would affect our American soldiers — physically, their morale would suffer. It would hurt in every way, it would give the troops a feeling of just a half-hearted effort on our part, that we were just trying to keep a few people satisfied. When I was over there, that's the feeling I got. The bombings were not good, it was just a political thing. We had the feeling that we weren't there for the actual reasons they were saying we were. I feel very strongly that if we are going to bomb, we should go at it 100 percent and not just hit the jungles and the roads.

Mrs. Frank Danley, 235 Washington Road, waitress, Annex Restaurant: I think it's good. In fact, I think we should increase our bombing. I feel our boys should have an equal chance of winning. We're not helping them by not bombing.

Richard Fernandez, 225 Eisenhower Street, graduate student, Romance Languages: It's very hard to see what the ultimate results will be, but in view that everything we've tried has failed, I think I'm in favor. Every reasonable way of trying to attain peace has been made no doubt in these people. We can't sit back and let them do what they want. There's nothing else to be done so I am for it. And if the least indication comes that peace can be attained, then, certainly, the bombing should be stopped.

Samuel Chase, freshman at Rider College: Very much in favor of it because I think by stopping the bombing we are just disrupting our own and American lives are being lost for no reason at all. I believe a power like the United States has no business letting this war drag on, and I'm very much in favor of carrying this war right into North Viet Nam until it ceases. This war should be ended by us as soon as possible.

Edward Zitz, 23 Moran Avenue, graduate student, chemistry: Extremely disappointed. I believe the bombing is immoral and I believe it is linked with our intention to increase our military effort there rather than to seek a just settlement with the Viet Cong.

Maureen Eide, 467 Devereux Avenue, graduate student, politics: I generally agree with the argument that this is a military decision. I feel that simple time was given to the stopping of the bombing. It seems the big problem here is one of confidence that the average person can put in government reports of the importance of bringing to a stop the infiltration of the Viet Cong... but this is a difficult area, generally agree with the resumption of the bombings.

Mrs. J. B. Baldwin, 281 Jefferson Road, housewife: I think this is one time we will have to trust our military experts. I think they will make the right decision.

William Wilson, Trenton, bookkeeper, Hertz Rent-A-Car, Witherspoon Street: I think it's a good idea. I think we should bomb so much as we can because I believe this will end the war quicker.

Richard Shea, Trenton, pharmacist, Nassau Pharmacy: I feel like the President: it has to be done. He's tried a lot of other means to achieve negotiations with the Viet Cong and he hasn't been successful. To support our troops, I feel we have to resume the bombings.

Mrs. Marjorie Locker, 9 College Road, housewife: I'm unhappy about it because I hate to see the resumption of any armed hostility, I would hate to see an extension of this conflict. I don't know what the alternative would be other than to hope peace talks will begin again.

E. J. Hartman, Levittown, Pa., sales manager: I'm not opposed to it. I feel that is a continuation of it and I think it is essential to let the South Viet Namese know we are not going to give up on it. It was also given to the problem given to the United Nation. I think this is a good idea.

Robert McKee, 30 Edwards Place, visiting fellow, Princeton University: I think it was a bad move. The fact that we are going to negotiate for peace, I just don't know whether 37 days is enough. Another problem: I don't know if we have all the facts in the situation. I don't think we are being told frankly the difficulties in Viet Nam and how much it costs, not only in dollars but in terms of human resource and time involved.

Al Rauch, Berrien Avenue, Princeton Junction, business manager, Plumbers Local 388: I think we should continue. Seems to me there is no other way but to show them force. We're trying to negotiate — and we're still trying — and it doesn't seem to get us anywhere.

John Palوتر, Topfield, Mass., publisher: Not in favor. I feel our coincidental appeal to the United Nations makes it appear as if we intend to renew the bombings.

Harry Zaslow, Philadelphia, salesman: Disappointed in a way. I'm for a peaceful settlement of anything and anything isn't going to help. But what difference does it make? They're going to bomb anyway if they want to. I matter what the people think.

TOPS' World Widens
Children's World of Township 1, a bright new world for Township 1 boys and girls lies behind the bold legions of Title I, Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

Shaky little readers will gain strength and skill. They will have a chance to read books about youngsters just like themselves, whose mothers and fathers speak a different language from the one that's spoken in school.

Youngsters may not have a gift for music but may even know what music is, can borrow a violin and take lessons, or maybe learn drums well enough to play in the band.

Children who have never heard the word "theatre" may find themselves at a PTA show for the first time that tingling moment when the house lights dim and magic appears on the leghed stage.

Children will be trained in remedial reading techniques which will strengthen their professional life for years to come. Families who have felt themselves apart from the main stream of school life will come to know the friendship of the school social worker who stops by the house for a chat.

Where There Is Need, Title I Pays for Projects designed to help meet the greatest educational needs of the children with the greatest educational needs.

The United States Office of Education notified the Township early in October that the school system was eligible for a grant of $15,940. School districts do not compete for the money; the amount is determined by a formula and the individual school systems can accept the money or not, as they choose. It is in the words of school officials, a "100% grant" that is no local tax money is used at all.

The Township has received its first installment of $9,000 and the program is already under way.

Community Park School is the center because Community Park serves the largest number of public school children who can benefit from the program. However, the government makes the grant to all children in the community, so Township boys and girls who attend St. Paul's, Stuart Country Day or Princeton Day Schools are also eligible.

I Can Read! Reading is the hub of the Township's Title I program. Five Community Park teachers, one from each grade, 1-5 have now completed an intensive one-week course in remedial reading techniques at Temple University, tuition paid with Title I money.

The teachers are Mrs. Pauline Bender, Mrs. Barbara A. Mank, Mrs. Kathryn Michael, Mrs. Evelyn Shaw and Mrs. Laura Walton. Mrs. Elaine Jones, a part-time remedial reading teacher, is using drills and exercise materials of a highly specialized nature to shore up the skill and confidence of young readers. And if she thinks a particular child needs more, she will transfer him to the Township's Learning Center.

Books and instructional materials which teachers call "ethnic readers" are helpful boys and girls to identify themselves with the children they read about in the learning-to-read books.

In the Community Park library, there is a new aide, Mrs. Leone Kahn, whose work will free the librarian, Mrs. Eudora Wright, so that she can spend more time with individual children.

This summer, there will be a six-week remedial program so that all these new skills will not have a chance to run away.

Music, too. But there is more than reading. With Title I money, the Township will lease a collection of musical instruments and "rent" them out free to youngsters who want to learn how to blow a trumpet.

For children who need them, under the government's special Title I money will mean more complete medical examinations may come to talk about books, than the schools already give as a standard service.

In some ways, the entire school will benefit because "enrichment" assemblies for all boys and girls are permitted since September, the Township has had a half-time school worker. Mrs. Jane Brooks, Title I money is being used to extend her to full-time so that she can visit families in their homes, learn to know the mothers and fathers and draw them into the active school life of their children. The projects were developed

NEW LAW FORSEEN

Regarding Floridian. Rep. Frank Thompson Jr. (D-N.J.), in a speech given here last week at the annual conference of the New Jersey State Dental Society, predicted that Florida would soon be required by law.

Although Mr. Thompson was unable to attend the conference, his speech was read by William T. Delle, an administrative aide. He told the society: "Many of us are coming to feel that the day cannot be put off much longer when the regulatory powers of government are used to enforce fluoridation."

Mr. Thompson added, "It is a fact that in this respect is over 80 million people established. It seems a tragedy that the Federal Government of New Jersey dental health program should be compromised by the fact that in this progressive state the proportion of the population enjoying natural or controlled fluoridation is only 11 per cent, seven-tenths of the nation."

He added that dental health, although neglected, was a national area where a small national investment could yield "such dramatic results."

JOB CORPS TO VISIT
With Area Families. Thirty young men from the Job Corps will arrive in Princeton for a weekend visit on Friday, February 18. The Princeton Janties are in the process of visiting 30 area families to act as their hosts.

The purpose of the project is to acquaint members of the Corps with community life in this area, which is very much different from the life which most members of the Corps know. The youngsters will come from the Kilmer Job Corps Center in Edison.

A tentative program for the weekend includes a Saturday luncheon, a tour of the University and the Princeton area and a trip to the Walker-Gordon dairy farm in Plainsboro. Emphasis, however, will be on personal contact between the corpsman and his host.

According to R. Richard Johnson, deputy director of the Kilmer Job Corps Center, area residents "can help introduce corpsmen to a society of dignity through productive effort by offering them the hospitality of their homes, their recreational facilities, their hours of worship, their places of business and their organizations." Members of the Corps generally have a background of social and economic deprivation and lack the basic job skills with which to earn a living.

Project chairman Douglas Bosomworth said that anyone interested in being a host for the weekend of February 18-20 should write him at his apartment 34 Clement Ave., Trenton 08638, or call him during the day at 882-3750 for further information.

Other members of the Jaycee committee sponsoring the project are Ted Vaughan (Lawrenceville), a newspaper chairman; Howard Bergerer (Trenton), program chairman; and Robert Craig (Plainsboro) and David Bressler (Cranbury), subchiefs. Also helping are members of the Y's Men's Club of Princeton and the Young Life chapter.

SHAKESPEARE IS TOPIC
For Wyman Club. Arthur W. Littlejohn, executive director of the Wyman Club and a lecturer in the English department of Princeton University will speak at the Monday meeting of the Wyman Club.

His topic will be "Shakespeare and the Abard." Wives of Princeton University students.

RESIDENTS PROTEST

Dutch Neck Library Site.
Several West Windsor Township residents are objecting to a proposed site for a new branch of the Mercer County Library which would require converting an old church building into a modern library facility. Cost for the purchase of the land occupied by the Presbyterian Church's Christian Education Building in Dutch Neck would be $29,000 and cost for the conversion would be another $5,000.
Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Sjastrom, in a letter addressed to the Township Committee which voted 4-3 in favor of the move, expressed criticism of the decision. They noted that the Township Planning Board had opposed the purchase because community expansion will soon require the construction of a new and larger municipal building.

The letter also said the building on the one acre of land owned by the Church was no longer considered by its trustees as a place for children.

It urged that a different site be purchased so that a new municipal building and a library could be built in a more central area with plenty of parking space.

Other residents in the Grover's Mill area are now preparing a petition setting forth their objections to the Committee's decision. Mrs. Kenneth Schartz of Mill Road is in charge of the petition.

A final vote on the purchase of the land will be taken at the February 14th meeting of the Township Committee. Mrs.
Sjastrom expressed her hope that other residents of the community will attend the meeting to protest the purchase.

ville, to discuss Hebeas, or tional. She holds a teacher's purchased from any member of either club for $1. Ticket chairmen are Mrs. William Jahs, Lawrenceville, and

BOYCHOIR IS RACK

But Ready to Leave Again.
The Columbus Boychoir, which returned Monday from its five-week tour of Japan, is preparing for its annual concert tour of the United States and Canada which will open on Thursday, February 17. The tour will start on that date in Guelph, Ontario.

rected by Donald Bryant, sang for the Crown Prince and his wife at the Imperial Palace in Tokyo, Japan. The group also recorded a song composed by the princess for the Japanese National Archives and appeared on TV in addition to 32 scheduled performances.

North America will cover 1,000 miles and stretch from ington Junction, George year. Heading the slate of officers unanimously elected was Dudley E. Woodbridge, who will serve as president.

Others named were William LaTourrette, first vice-president; Charles Raylek, second vice-president; George E. Wilson, secretary; and D. H. Tyler, treasurer.

WOLFFKIL, NAMED

An assistant Superintendent,
John Wolffkil has been named assistant superintendent of Towamatah Schools and Mrs.
Mary Ballard has been appointed principal of Valley Road School.

Both were given "acting" appointments last July. No definitive action was taken at that time because of the pending school merger vote. The Township School Board, in announcing the new appointments, also said that Mrs.
Dani Shorter, enrichment coordinator, would return for personal reasons, effective February 28.

the Italian race.

The federation will also promote reforms in municipal policies concerning education, policing, taxation, recreation,
etc. which will affect its members.

PROFESSES DIVIDED

From Jaycee Football. The New Jersey Jaycees have distributed $127,500 to state charities and community service projects. The money represented the proceeds of the 1965 Jaycee Football Classic in which the Philadelphia Eagles defeated the New York Giants before 39,698 paid customers.

Sharing in the distribution are more than 260 charities and 179 Jaycee communities who will receive a total of $87,900. The remaining funds will be used for community service, youth sports and community development activities conducted by more than 210 local Jaycee chapters.

Since the first football classic in 1962, the event has continued on Page 3.

The program in each area is determined by the local club itself. In Princeton, the club's primary project is the Rotary Club Scholarship Loan Foundation, coupled with vocational guidance at the high school.

THE WINNER: At 11:45 of the second period, Terry Peterman (in black uniform, such outstretched jammed the puck (arrow, in cage) past Harvard goalie Bill Fitzsimmons. SPORTS In Princeton

FROM LAST TO SECOND!
Hockey improving. Steadily. As it heads for the first game of its home-and-home series with Yale this weekend, Princeton's hockey team is confronted with the opportunity of leap-frogging all the way from last place to the runner-up slot in the Ivy League in the short space of a single season. It will take some doing, but at the half-way point in the 1966 race, it is the Tigers who hold that spot and someone else who will have to dislodge them.

It has been a decade since a first place high was achieved by an Orange and Black series. To earn it this season, Princeton will have to sweep the series with Yale and probably win one of its remaining three games with Harvard, Brown and Cornell. The resultant 12 points out of a possible 20 may be enough for a second place finish — a performance that would have a tremendous credit to Coach John Wilson in his first year on the Princeton scene.

The former NHL star accomplished something on Saturday that neither of his predecessors had managed since 1953. That was the water that Dick Vaughan produced the last Ivy hockey title to come to Princeton, the team that Hank Boldt had explained defeating Harvard on its way to the championship.

Most of the Crimson hockey teams in the intervening years have been outstanding, but even in an occasional lean season, such as the Cantab experienced in 1964 and '65, Princeton could not win. On Saturday, however, a Harvard sextet that had trimmed the Buffalo found the tables turned on it here by the same convincing margin.

Princeton rallies to win. Down by scores of 2-0 and 3-1 in the first period, the Tigers came on strong to win despite the fact that they were short-handed. Both senior Bert Bruser, a forward, and defenseman Randy Spencer were out with illness.

Wilson started a line that had never skated together before, relying on sophomores

John Ritchie to center for Charlie Killian and Mike Wiggins. He had Harvard coach Conney Welland, another former NHL star, so eager to know who he would have on ice at the face-off that they got out the rule book to determine which team had to make its lineup known first. Harvard proved its point that the home team was required to make the first move and then took so long to announce its own choice that the start of the game was delayed for several minutes.

When the Crimson opened with a garbage goal that hopped weakly into the Tiger cage and added two more in the first 15 minutes, the action began to follow a wholly familiar pattern. The Tigers had gone on the scoreboard at 6:45, when Steve Cook walked in a hard shot from 40 feet that nicked a Harvard skate on the way past goalie Bill Fitzsimmons. The initiative, however, remained with Harvard.

Amazingly, the Crimson's first three-period goals were all they produced for the rest of the afternoon, and that was nowhere near enough. Before the round ended, Gordie Gladman langed in a shot from close range and as early as 1:29 in the second period, Ritchie brought the home team even in a climax of a well-controlled power play launched while Harvard was a man short.

The first of two goals by sophomores Terry Peterman, who had sat out the mid-week contest against the St. Nick's with a minor injury, swung the game 4-3 in Princeton's way. Fitzsimmons batted out the puck before he failed to control Peterman's job just inside the crease, and at 11:45, the Tigers took charge.

Depth is a hallmark of Harvard hockey teams, but this one could not stay with the tired-up Tigers in the final minutes before the level minutes left, Peterman broke away at center ice to go in on the Harvard cage alone, heating Fitzsimmons on a hard shot to the left corner.

Steve Cook raised the margin to 6-3 when he banged in a rebound from point-blank range. His two goals and two assists with which he was credited constituted the best performance of his three-year career.

As he had against Brown, Graeme Flinders provided two periods of shutout hockey to make the victory possible while his teammates were easing an early deficit. One of the longest stretches that any Princeton team has gone against an opponent in any sport had ended, and with it came no objection to the rest of the league that the Tigers are ready to play first division hockey for some time to come.

INCONSISTENCY RETURNS
Tigers Lose League Lead. No longer in the driver's seat in the Ivy League race, Princeton's unpredictable basketball team faces an uncertain future in the three remaining weeks of the 1966 season. Of the four outlets hoping to win the title, the Tigers were the only ones to lose last weekend, the deficit costing them undisputed possession of first place.

Despite the warning they had in mid-January, when they badly edged Harvard here, 52-50, they were consistently beaten by the Crimson at Cambridge, trailing by 11 (36-25) as early as half time and by 56-41 at the end. The defeat came at the hands of an opponent that had a 5-10 record, including losses to such teams as Williams, Tufts and M.I.T., and had not played during a 17-day break for examinations.

Both of the strong points on which the Tigers had been able to rely this season vanished simultaneously. In contrast to the welcome rotation which had seen one or more of the regulars hit double figures consistently, they tallied exactly 21 among them: Gary Walters (10), Don Rudenbach (6), each; Ed Hadenbach (5); Robby

WHO IS ELIGIBLE FOR GEM?

Children — girls or boys — from 15 days through 15 years.

HOW DOES GEM WORK?

A one-krack GEM initial provides $1,250 of economic term coverage until your child reaches age 23.

The cost — for all these years of protection — is only one $60 payment!

GEM not only covers your child today but later provides a lifetime setting of protection with ever-growing cash (and other) value. Another amazing fact ... allows the insured to purchase, at standard rates and without medical or other exam, four additional $5,000 amounts of permanent protection! ... At ages 25, 27, 29 and 31 — protection may be increased by as much as $5,000 at each age. Sports in Princeton
Brown, 4, and Bob Harlow, 0. Gorge, too, was the vanguard defensive play in which the Princeton team had been among the nation's leaders. Harvard's Keith Sedwick hit at a point-blank range in the first half, closing with 29 for the evening and pacing a Crimson offense that led the victors big 24-11 for 16 for the losers.

Sophomores John Harlow with 20 points and Joe Heiler with 18, combining for 38 of the 61 the Tigers could score, were the only ones who played basketball that night. Despite his injured wrist, Heiler was in double figures again Saturday as the Princetonians defeated last-place Dartmouth at Hanover, 68 to 38, that sort of consistency may win him a place in the starting lineup during the stretch run.

Even the cellar-dweller Indians, no better than 3-14 on the season, made trouble

WAS HIS BASKET GOOD?
Richi Volk "buzzer basket" was disallowed at the end of the Steiner game, but PHS partisans thought otherwise.

for Princeton. The game came within four toward the end of the first half and were down by only five with 2:45 to go. Hadenback's 20 paced Princeton scoring, but Ed Hummer failed to make a basket against the Green in contrast to the 25 points he produced against Dartmouth here and his total output of seven for the two-game trip is one of the numerous problems facing the Tigers in the weeks ahead.

Yale Can Be Troublesome. Despite its 5-9 record, Yale may give Princeton a battle Saturday night in Dillen Gym. The Elis lack height, but did achieve an upset of considerable magnitude two weeks ago when they defeated Columbia by 21 points on the Elis' court.

Rich Johnson at 6-4 is the tallest of the Elis' regulars, and teams up front with sophomores Neal Miller and Ed Goldstone. The guards are Captain Bert Broadfoot and Rick Steiner, with Goldstone and Broadfoot the most consistent scorers. Brown, like Yale the proud possessor of a major upset with its triumph over Cornell at Ithaca, should be an easy victim of the Tigers but nothing appears to come easily to this current Princeton team. The Bruins have never defeated the Tigers in Dillen Gym, and held only four victories over them out of 28 games in a series that began in 1908. Captain Don Tarr, 6-5, and 6-6 Dave Gale are the Rhode Islanders' big men, with 5-11 Mike Fahy, 6-3 John Donaldson and 5-9 Rick Landau others who will see a good deal of action. Brown's appearance on Friday night at 6, followed by Yale on Saturday, will be the last of the second division teams on the schedule. After that, the Tigers have back-to-back meetings with Columbia and Cornell and the return contest with Penn—the last three on the schedule away from home.

"BUZZER BASKET?" NO
PHS Loses, 77-73. If basketball is a game of inches, basketball is often a game of seconds. Such was the case Friday evening when the final two seconds of the Princeton-Steiern game were the springboard first for elation, then confusion, altercation and frustration on the part of the Little Tigers.

First, while they will probably be talking about the Steiner game for a long time, the Little Tigers still have five contests to play Friday evening; they will be at Bridgewater-Raritan for an 8 o'clock tilt with the Golden Falcons, and on Tuesday afternoon at 3:45 the Blue and White will host Highland Park.

Games with Hamilton, Asbury Park and Princeton complete the regular season's schedule. Coach Tony Bortz's team started the week with a 9-8 record, and it appears from this juncture that its chances of ending above the .500 mark are good. Last year, PHS finished with a 12-12 record.

Ask five different people what happened in these final two seconds of the Steiner game and afterwards and you will get five different versions. The situation was this:

With two seconds left, and Princeton High trailing, 77-73, Wilbur Hines took a shot and missed. Richi Volk grabbed the rebound and made a basket for an apparent tie.

While Little Tiger Ed McEwen was jumping happily, shouting "Yes! No! Joe Ballal ran across the court, shouting "No! No! No!" Here the confusion begins.

as Volz was making his tying shot. Ballal was hit from behind by a spectator (the seats go right up to the out-of-bounds line in the small Steinert gym) causing him to look away and miss the shot. Thinking the official time keeper had ruled time had run out, he signaled, "No basket." Ballal then turned to umpire Bill Meadows and asked, "Did you see it?"

Andreas replied, "No, I have not seen it." In that case, said Ballal, it's up to the timekeeper. Ballal confronted the official timekeeper, James Gibson, a history teacher at Steinert, and said, "Since I didn't see it, you have to be the one to make the decision."

Gibson, however, demurred, saying, "Now, let's not go into the twisting the decision to me. I thought you already gave the decision."

Fiebt Erupst. Meanwhile, amidst the confusion and lack of a decision, a fight broke out around the scorer's table. Ballal was reported slugged, as was Steinert coach Jim Wilno. Coach Borok and the entire Little Tiger squad were, of course, duly agitated. By the time Hamilton Township police managed to restore order, the teams had already entered their dressing rooms.

There it ended. Ballal's decision stood and Steinert was the winner, 77-75.

Nick Karasany, manager and scorekeeper for the Little Tigers, said afterwards: "I was sitting beside that clock and I swear that ball went in before time ran out."

PHS athletic director Joseph Jingoli, who witnessed the game, remarked: "Once a game starts, it's in the hands of the officials. It shouldn't be up to the timekeeper to make the decision." He added, "It looks like a mistake was made, one official called it good, one said no. It just happened that the decision went against us."

Two days after the game, Borok commented, "That's the way it goes. That's the way it goes. That's the way it goes."

WOOD UP FOR TAP-IN: Princeton High's 6-4 Tom Wood (55) has a big jump over Steinert's rebounder, Joe Kostyan (31). In this battle under the boards in Friday's contest, Ken Lyons (42) is the poised Little Tiger looking on. TOWN TOPICS Photo by Bob Matthews anything more about it one way or the other."

Fine Play Overshadowed The unsatisfactory ending overshadowed the fact that the previous 31 minutes contained some magnificent basketball engineered by both squads.

The first half was all Princeton. The visiting Blue and White awed the home town onlookers with a fine display a precision ball handling and control ball. Methodically working the ball into Ken Lyons where Ken is accurate from the middle of the key, the Little Tigers built a commanding 42-24 half time lead.

When Ken was unable to get off a shot, he passed off to Tom Wood moving underneath for layups. Credit for this must be shared by Borok, who devised the attack, and by the Little Tigers, who carried it out to perfection. It was one of the best halves fashioned by the Blue and White this season.

Unfortunately, it didn't last. Steinert began to come alive in the second half, particularly Don Hess, who bucketed 23 points in the final two periods. His game high of 34 was one more than his previous high school record — which he earned in Steinert's 105-55 shellacking Princeton last month.

With eight minutes to go, the Spartans went into a full court press, after having outscored PHS 31-18 in the third period. Yet with two minutes left, PHS had overcome a five-point deficit to lead by five themselves. They were unsuccessful in an attempt to freeze the ball, however, losing it twice, once on a questionable call against Hines and again on an interception.

With 12 seconds remaining, 6-4 Tom Wood fouled out, after playing an outstanding game and scoring 20 points. His height was missed in those final frenzied seconds. Hines also tallied 20 and now needs only 41 to reach the 1000 point career mark.

Ken Lyons and McEwen more 15 and 14 points while Volz, the luckless, would-be hero, had six. And so the contest of who would have prevailed in overtime a Steinert team which seemed to have the greater impetus in the second half, or a PHS squad, bolstered by its last-second hit, will have to remain just that — conjecture.

NOTRE DAME LOSTS, 27-21 To PHS Wrestlers, The Princeton High School wrestling team continues to make this first formative season of competition an impressive one. Friday, the Blue and White captured its fifth meet in eight starts by edging home team Notre Dame, 27 to 21.

Parents and PHS followers will get a chance to see coach Tom Murray's team in action Friday afternoon. To accommodate those who would like to see what is becoming one of the area's fastest growing high school sports, the bout with Peddie, originally set for February 25, has been changed to this Friday at 4 at the PHS gymnasium. There will be no admission charge.

A wrestling match actually consists of 12 man-to-man encounters. They can range from the truly exciting to the humdrum but when two accomplished and evenly-matched wrestlers go to the mat, the resultant drama can be as gripping as that offered by any sport. There are some exciting wrestlers to watch on the PHS squad.

Against the Irish (2-3), PHS took seven of the 12 individual bouts. The victors won the first two on pins and followed this with three straight decisions before ND was able to break the string of PHS wins.

Sieve, 90-lb. class; Bob Moore, 100 lb. and Stu Bell, 148-lb., recorded pins for the Little Tigers. Hank Wilmann (115), Fred Truett (123), Jim Severson (130) and Joe Harding (160) declined their opponents.

Ross Bayer, Princeton's crack 136-pounder, was moved up one level to the 141-lb. class where he was defeated by one of the best matmen for Notre Dame, Ed Wroblewski. Bayer is only a freshman. Three regular varsity performers—Craig Beachell, 157-lb. class, Craig Donaldson, 178-lb. and Paul Leaman, heavyweight, did not wrestle.

Earlier in the week, PHS defeated the Hun School Junior varsity, 45-10.

PHS LOSES RIG

For 3rd Junior Track Title. There had been only one winner of the Mercer County Indoor Track Title until last week—Princeton High School. The third annual event sponsored by the Lawrence Township Jaycees and Trenton Times for the third consecutive time, PHS lost out.

PHS, showing strength in the flat races, finished with the points, 15. PHS was the runner up, followed by Ewing, 20; Hamilton, 14; and Steiner, nine. Hightstown, Notre Dame and Cathedral also participated.

Bart Bennett gave PHS an early lead as he won both the low and high hurdles. Carl DeCavalente's test of 50 feet, 6 inches in the shotput was won by another PHS first, The Little Tiger also won the medley relay race, while Jeff Bullock finished second in the high jump.

Trenton was preeminent in the races, capturing the 60 yard dash, the 440, 880, and mile relay.

PHS SIX IN ACTION

Assault Livingston Club. Inactive for two weeks, the Princeton High School hockey club (4-2-1) takes to the ice again Friday at 5 when it will oppose Livingston. The contest will be held at Baker rink.

This will be the first meeting between the two teams. Coach George Thompson's Little Tigers had originally been hoping to meet Livingston in their opener but a scheduling conflict involving Livingston prevented the update contest from appearing here. Following Friday's game, the Blue and White will be inactive until a February 22nd meeting with Princeton Day School.

Larry Bearnath, retired pitcher for the New York Mets, will be the guest speaker. Films of the 1963 World Series will also be shown. Robert C. Decker, YMCA baseball commissioner, will serve as master of ceremonies.

HUN LOSES, 45-44

League Hopes Lost, Too. The Hun School basketball team dropped its fourth Penn-Jersey League contest in a row last week, losing a cliffhanger floor-down, 54-44. The defeat lowered Hun's league mark to 2-5.

"This puts us down near the bottom," said Hun coach Dave Leece, "and we're probably out of competition for the title. But we can still be 'spoilers' to the other teams. We still play Pennington and Perkiomen." Pennington and Moores-town with 5-2 records and Perkiomen are fighting it out for top honors.

The Red and Black will play its second of three non-league games Friday evening, traveling to Hightstown for a game with Peddie. "Peddie is a little bit out of our class," said Leece. "They play schools like Hill and Lawrenceville, so even if they are not having a good season it will be a good game for us."

Tuesday, Hun will swing back into league action, entertaining Bryn Athyn at 3:30 at the Seminary gymnasium. After that, two league contests are all that remain.

"I thought the boys played pretty good basketball for the last three quarters," said Leece, in commenting on the Moorestown game. "We were down 17 to 4 at the end of the first quarter."

Hun narrowed the gap to 25-23 at the half, but as Leece pointed out, "that's just the way it went the rest of the game. We were ahead a couple of times but they were ahead most of the time."

The man who gave us the twentieth century. Thomas A. Edison is the man...the man whose vision and labor at the turn of the century changed the course of history. Edison's genius for bringing electricity out of the laboratory and into a staggering number of practical uses was the first shot in a scientific revolution that is actually still in its infancy. February 11 is the birthday of Thomas A. Edison, and it is only fitting that the week of his birth be designated National Electrical Week. During this week, we pay tribute to Edison and other outstanding pioneers of electrical progress, whose devotion to mankind have given us a new and better world. RCA, which failed to win one of its first seven, took its third straight last week, edging by first-place ETS 44-43. Jim Clark was high for the winners with 18 points, while Paul Harman was the big man for EIS with 23. As a result, ETS, which led by one at the half, dropped into a tie for first with Film Center.

Film Center earned its tie by stopping Van Nostrand easily, 68-38. Harry Klunk and Tony Bocanuso combined for 49 center points, the latter hitting for 28, and Tom Crump and Bill Keilker each made 10 for the losers.

In the final game played at the Princeton High School gym, Western Electric had too much for Hospital. The score was 63-30. Harry Farnam and Vince Graziano made 16 and 15 points, respectively, and Bill Weber had 14 for Hospital.

PBS BOOTS SCUTTLED
By Trenton Press, Princeton High School journeyed to Trenton Tuesday night with hopes of evening an earlier (75-56) defeat by the Tornadoes. Those hopes were scuttled on the rocks of a Trenton full court press which made mincemeat of the Little Tigers during the second half. The final score was 81 to 58.

The Red and Black got off wedged, taking a 17-7 advantage after the first eight minutes. But PHS narrowed this deficit to one at the half and soon after the start of the third period, gained its only lead of the night, 37-36. After that, it was all Trenton.

During the entire second half, coach Fred Price's squad employed a full court, man-to-man press with devastating results. Trenton forced many PHS mistakes and intercepted a number of passes for easy layups. Figures for the second half read, Trenton 43, Princeton 25.

Princeton's sporing star, Wilbur Hines, was covered like a lightning all evening. He was held to his second lowest output of the season - 12 points. It appears now that "Scrubby" will require two more games to reach the coveted 1,000 point career mark. He needs 31 more.

The seven points bucketed by 6-4 Tom Wood were far below his average, as were the 13 lalled by Ken Lyons. Ed McEwen had 10 and Billy McQuade eight.

Savidge Still in Hospital
Paul Savidge, Princeton's football captain who suffered a severe neck injury during the final period of the Dartmouth game last November, is still in traction in Princeton Hospital. Because of his injury, which is a fracture of the first cervical vertebrae has taken longer than was first anticipated, he will be unable to graduate with his class in June.

Savidge has taken one of his term-end examinations and is expected to complete another next week. Since his injury, his wife has attended classes and tape-recorded his lectures.

He plans to return to Princeton next fall to complete the requirements for his degree. Discharge from the hospital in mid-March now seems likely, and complete recovery - short of ability to participate in contact sports - is anticipated.

were not off the mark in shooting. They converted 10-of-11 from the free throw line and sunk 24 of 53 shots from the

ST. PAUL'S ROLLS ON
Win Two More. The St. Paul's School basketball team won two more games last week to increase its overall record to a sparkling 21-3.

On Monday, St. Paul's defeated West Windsor 37 to 40 in a non-Catholic Youth League game. Top scorers for the victors were Mike McGuire with 24 and Harry Norton, 16. Mike Tomlinson added nine.

In a league game on Saturday, St. Stephen's was a 30-26 victim of superior St. Paul's shooting, particularly in the second half. The St. Paul's team and team started the game and the second half. St. Paul's won 21 to 12 and Rudy Shurtz end of the first period. St. Paul's was faced with a 10-2 deficit.

The varsity took over in the second half and outscored St. Stephen's 31 to 14. McGuire, 22 points and Mickey Chapuk, 10 paced St. Paul's. The victory upset St. Paul's league mark to 12-1 and enabled it to maintain first place in the

MUSIC In Princeton

VIVALDI, LIEDER

Two Concerto Glee. Two concertos took place within the past ten days at McCarter Theatre. On Monday, January 31, 1 Solisti Veneti performed Vivaldi's "The Four Seasons" as the featured work of the evening and the following Monday, February 7, German Prey, baritone, accompanied by Paul Ulanowsky at the piano, presented a recital of Schumann and Wolf lieder.

Despite the merits critics elsewhere have found in the reviewer felt both performances to be far below the standard of artistic and interpretive excellence that Princeton concertgoers have been offered during the past several years.

Baritone Singers. Mr. Prey's recital seemed to fare a bit better, but not much. The playing of Paul Ulanowsky carried the evening and in the requisite accompaniment of Schumann and Wolf provided in these songs, the role of the piano is not to be underestimated.

Accompaniments are hardly the proper term, for the piano music behind the lyrics and pathos of these tender and gentle vocal creations is extremely inventive and impressive. Mr. Ulanowsky played with a most sensitive feeling for this music, and seemed to convey the many contrasting moods more vividly than his vocal counterpart.

Mr. Prey's voice lacks body. His uppermost register is fine, but his middle and lower register is coarse and weak. His interpretations of the Schumann lieder seemed lifeless to this listener though his rendition of Wolf's humorous settings to Morike's equally humorous poetry was convincing.

The baritone's diction was generally articulate and one had little difficulty in following the German text sung by Mr. Prey along with the printed English translation given to the audience at the start of the concert.

If one could acoustically oneself to Mr. Prey's lightness of tone and detachment in his interpretations, one could not in good conscience condemn his chronically poor intonation.

TO SING HAYDN

Two Glee Clubs, Singers of the Goucher and Princeton Glee Clubs will join this Sunday at 3 in a performance of the "Theresia Mass" by Franz Joseph Haydn in Alexander Hall.

Solists will be Deborah Truxal, soprano; Jacqueline Pierce, contralto; William Cochran, tenor; and William Trego, bass.

Miss Truxal and Miss Pierce

Robert S. Freeman

are graduates of Westminster Choir College who have sung frequently in Princeton. Mr. Trego, also a Westminster graduate, is director of music at Princeton High School. Mr. Cochran is at the Curtis Institute of Music, Philadelphia.

Tickets, at $1.25, $1.75 and $2.50, are available at the University Store and will be on sale at the door on Sunday afternoon. Students will be admitted for $1.

TO CONDUCT ORCHESTRA

For Princeton University. Robert S. Freeman was director in the department of music at Princeton University, has been named to succeed Nicholas Harsanyi as conductor of the Princeton University Symphony Orchestra.

Mr. Harsanyi is resigning because of the pressure of other commitments. He is the conductor of the Princeton Chamber Orchestra, the Trenton Symphony and the Chamber Orchestra, the Philadelphia Chamber Orchestra, the Trenton Symphony and the Colonial Symphony Orchestra of Madison, N.J. He is also head of the department of instrumental music at Westminster Choir College.

The youngest full-time member of the music department, Mr. Freeman is 30, a summa cum laude graduate of Harvard with the class of 1957. He holds a master of Fine Arts degree from Princeton.

Mr. Freeman studied piano with Rudolph Serkin, oboe with Fernand Gillet, conducting with Leonard Bernstein and Lukas Foss and has been accompanist for Joseph Silverstein, now the concertmaster of the Boston Symphony.

The young conductor comes from a family of professional musicians. His father is acting principal double bass in the Princeton Symphony and his younger brother, a member of the Harvard faculty, and his mother are both professional performing musicians.

DEMUS AND BACH

Pair Due In McCarter. Although Georg Demus has recorded more than 50 records for music-lovers in the United States, he is chiefly known for his affinity for Bach, and for the Well-Tempered Clavier in particular. The young pianist will play all of Book 1 of the Well-Tempered Clavier on Monday, February 21, at McCarter Theatre as part of the "Musical-McCarters" series. "A matter of musical light and shade, joy and gravity, propulsive energy and lyrical ease," said the New York Times last fall when Mr. Demus played the famous preludes and fugues in New York's Philharmonic Hall.

WORDS ON MUSIC

Folk Style. Frederic Ramsey, folk-song historian, will talk about Friday night collecting folk music songs and background material before members and guests of the Princeton Folk Music Society. NEW PHONES BOOKS DUE Delivery Next Week. Close to 27,000 new telephone directories will be delivered in Princeton beginning next Wednesday with the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company.

The cover of the 1966 directory for Princeton will commemorate the founding in 1714 of Rutgers University and pays tribute to New Jersey's 42 colleges and universities. This is the only one having two titles from that date. The Colonial times, Princeton having been founded in 1746.

A painting of "Old Queens," the most famous landmark at Rutgers, will appear on the front cover. The back cover will carry the school colors and founding dates of every college and university in the state.

There are 1,800 more alphabetical books this year, making a total of 33,800. Telephone directories for other parts of New Jersey may be obtained free by calling the New Jersey Bell business office.

THAT UPWARD CLIMB
For Bank & Trust, Princeton Bank and Trust has advanced its position among the 14,000 banks in the country from 700th in December, 1964, to 683rd.

The rating, announced by William R. Cosby, president of F.R. & T., is made annually by "American Banker," the publication of the banking industry.

The bank's standing is based on its total assets. In 1965, Princeton Bank & Trust stood 1,237 in the list, which means that, according to the current rating, it has just about doubled its standing in 13 years.

The bank's biggest leap occurred in 1956, when it jumped 185 points from the previous year. A brief slide back by about 20 points in 1957 still gave the bank a net gain in 1958.

The number one bank, according to most estimates, is the Bank of America.

Let's talk about hair cuts this week!
If you must have a good professional haircut, but remember that a scissors or electric haircut cannot take the place of a permanent wave—hair straightening or relaxing treatments. If this is what your hair needs, I find that women expect much more from their hair; for instance, wanting a long hair-do and a short hair-do at the same time.

Today, some teenage girls like long hair, but don't understand it's a woman's look. Stop nipping off just a little, because it never seems to grow back. If you have your hair done by a professional, there are a difference.

Clients are made to give your hair body and sheen, so as your hair grows long, the ends won't become dry and brittle and start splitting. Crown rinses are made to remove tangles and do just what you want.

If you are now giving your hair out from a short hair cut, it must grow in right. Remember, just like it is, which is wrong, cut the nape—10 top and sides grow much slower. By not having your hair shopped while it's growing long, the back will become much longer than the sides and will reach out over the crown area so that you will have a definite drop at the back of your head. Before you know it your hair will look trimmer and unkept.

If you do as I have suggested, in no time at all, you too will have your hair shopped by hair-like—all our customers at TAVERNWOOD BEAUTY MANOR have come to the TAVERNWOOD BEAUTY MANOR.

"We Loved It, But the Points Got Complicated!"

TWO STRUGGLING YOUNG LADIES trying to furnish an apartment need used and inexpensive items: TV, clock radio, vacuum cleaner, pots and pans, table, chairs, safe, typewriter. Call 924-7171 after 5 p.m.

"We got a bit more in the way of results than we had expected," said one of the young ladies reported. "It was knowing the first night TOWN TOPICS came out, and a woman called to say the wasn't able to get to McCarter Theatre, but she'd like to leave our names so we could use her tickets."

"A vacuum cleaner salesman said he had no incentive model and to prove how well it worked, he came up and cleaned the apartment."

"People did differ a bit about what was 'inexpensive'—one of the calls quoted a price of $85 for a TV set (it was in color) but we also got several offering sets for $30 to $40.

"One woman called and said she had a few items we might like, and wouldn't we come around for coffee. She said she was lonely, and would love to talk to us."

"Before TOWN TOPICS had been out for 24 hours, we had two or more calls on everything we had listed in the ad. We were mighty happy, of course, but the printers who were printing the apartment weren't. They were mad because the phone rang all day and we weren't home to answer it."

Plan your next ad in TOWN TOPICS when the printers aren't there, but if you've something to sell, something you want, just give us a ring at 924-2200. The results are yours for as little as $1.25 for the first 20 words.

PARENTS—Be sure to take your children to "DOG OF FLANDERS" at the Princeton Playhouse, Saturday, February 12.

A White Elephant Painted Yellow:
This house has been on the market so long that we're afraid its reputation may be in jeopardy. It's a masterpiece, really, listen to its credentials: center hall, formal living and dining rooms, sleek modern kitchen, family room with french doors to a terrace. Maid's room, plus five double bedrooms and three and a half baths. Full basement, two car garage. Western Township location. The owner will talk a little on price, but we're proud of this house and feels, as he do, that it's well worth the $65,500

A Lake on the Bottom of the Garden:
Is just one of the things that makes living in this glass-walled contemporary an adventure. Another is those glass walls! The squirrels playing in the trees and the wild geese on the lake become a fascinating part of your life. It's a wonderful, unusual house and whether you have two or three children or no children, it will fit just as though it had been designed just for you. That lake, by the way, is no frog pond, it's the real McCoy - Carnegie. $74,500

Five Bedrooms - Three Full Baths:
Close - in Princeton Township location within walking distance of elementary school. Living room with fireplace and separate dining room opening to a screened porch. The kitchen's a kitchen, but there's a paneled family room, full, dry, full and garage. Freshly painted and realistically priced at $39,500

What A Soli Landing this could be, positively cushy for the right family. A five bedroom, three year old Hunt and Augustine colonial with real personality. Three fireplaces - one in the living room, one in the study and one (unopened) in the dining room. Three bathrooms - one and a half in the children's quarters, one off the master bedroom, and another half off the family room. The shop-ed kitchen has every appliance. Cozy front porch. It had been designed for you. Lovely long country views. Eleven minutes from the Princeton Day Schools. $42,500

Practically A Penthouse: Although it's just a few steps from the other three bedrooms, this fresh, sunny room, with its own dressing room and bath, will seem a world apart to a pair of weary parents. Downstairs, it is arranged with that same 'apartness' in mind - so necessary to a big family. Two living rooms! One has a fireplace, the other, real paneling, a bank of tall windows and direct access to the garden. Separate dining room and kitchen have doors to the screened porch. Located in a most desirable Western Section neighborhood with lots of other young families like yours. Low $50's

ONCE IN A LIFETIME...

ONCE IN A LIFETIME...

A serenely beautiful house such as this one comes on the market. Occupied for just 3 months it reflects the talent of its architect, the skill of its builder and the meticulous taste of its owners.

There are countless extra touches in its design which lift it far above the ordinary run of 3 bedroom, 2 bath Cape Cod houses. Such features as the exposed beam ceiling in the family room, the 2 fireplaces, the full length windows in the breakfast area, the charming and unusual dormer windows upstairs, the custom tilework in the bathrooms, the Montana Corlan kitchen flooring, etc., etc. all contribute to an overall impression of grace and luxury.
